Business brisk.

Weather rather warm.

The packets all got away with fair trips last night.

The Carrie Hogan passed down early yesterday morning for Yazoo river.

Captain O. P. Shinkie's new Golden Rule will be launched at Cincinnati to-day.

The levee contractors are pushing the repairs on the stone wharf rapidly, and will finish up in a few days. the stone wharf rapidly, and will finish up in a few days.

Captain Glenn has already engaged about 900 bales of cotion for the joiden Crown—a good send-off for the new packet.

The receipts by river resterday, in cotion, cotion-seed and seed-cotion, footed up 728 bales cotion, 86 bags seed-cotion and 2734 sacks cotion-seed.

The G. W. Cheek has changed her days to Helena to Toesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which gives us a daily line between Memphis and Helena.

The steamer Grand Tower discharged at the elevator a lot of turkeys and chickens, added about eighty tons, and left for Vicksburg with a good trip.

The Florence Meyer, Captain James Nicholis, arrived from St. Louis at dark last night, or route to Arkansas river, it is said to run between that stream and New Orleans this season.

The A. J. White, it was reported early this week, was to start out in the Friars Point trade this evening. We have heard nothing more about it, and give the old favorite the benefit of all we know in this notice.

The Minnie, Cantain Albert Smith's new upper

ing. We have heard nothing more about it, and give the old favorite the benefit of all we know in this notice.

The Minnie, Captain Albert Smith's new upper White river packet building at Jeffersonville, Indiana, will make her trial trip to-day, so he states in a private letter to Captain W. C. Harry, and will leave Louisville for Memphis Monday.

Cairo Builetin, Thursday: "Captain Bob Speed arrived from Grand Tower pesterday, and left for St. Louis by rail last night. He goes from there home. He says the little towboat Mab will tow his coalbarges, two at a time, from Grand Tower to Cairo."

The Ruth will arrive from White river to-day with a cracking big trip of cotton and sundries. She returns at five o'clock this evening. Shippers are requested to send their freights to the Lee wharfboat, where they will be received and promptly forwarded. Our advertising columns show seven steamers billed to leave this evening, as follows: Ste. Genevieve, for St. Louis; Batesville, for Folk's landing; George W. Cheek, for Helena; Buth, for White river; Florence Meyer, for Arkansas river; Golden Crown, for New Orleans; Mark Twain, for St. Francis river. The new Golden Crown, said to be the handsomest sternwheeler ever set afloat, will be at the wharf to-day, and will be an object of interest to all lovers of elegant steamboat architecture. Her officers, Captain H. H. Drown and Chief Clerk Eugene Shinkle, will be pleased to show the Crown's superior accommodations for both freight and passengers to visitors.

That our sister city, Cairo, would one day come to modations for both freight and passengers to visitors.

That our sister city, Cairo, would one day come to grief through the very means that made a city out of a swamp, was expected thirty years ago. There was no wharf there; the high floods drowned out most of the land, and a wharf built high enough to exclude the water was the only chance of obtaining permanent foundations for houses and public buildings. The wharf was made, and those who constructed it held the city at their mercy. The Cairo Argus now complains that the city is absolutely fenced off from the river, so that not a person or a pound of freight can come into the city or go out from it, by river, without paying tribute to the owners of the "fence" or wharf. The only way of relief is for the city to buy the wharf; it will then be free from tribute. The Jettles.

The Jettles.

St. Louis Times: The New York Times has a very friendly article upon the jettles and their builder, and after alluding to the ungenerous opposition with which he has had to contend, speaks as follows of the latest criticisms of the work: "Captain Eads has just published a paper in which he states that he has had the jetty fronts carefully and thoroughly examined, and that ne such shoaling as that predicted has taken place. On the contrary, he claims that there has been a considerable deepening of the guif over several hundred acres outward from the end of the jettles between diverging lines. He states further that there exists at the jetty-outlet a distinct and almost constant current from east to west, and transverses to the current flowing from the jetty-channel. This current, he states, effectually washes away the deposits which are brought down by the river, and leaves the channel confined by the dikes free from all obstruction. If these statements are not disproved, the jetty system must be regarded as a complete success." All that the Cincinnati Commercial and other enemies of the jettles have to do, in order to make out their case, is prove Eads a liar. He has made certain statements, based, he says, upon careful examination. If these statements can be shown to be false by unimpeachable testimony, then the final success of the jettles may be considered as involved in doubt. If no such testimony can be produced, and the truth of the statements is conceded, the success of the jettles may as well be conceded at the same time. Impudent assertion is not argument, and one well-authenticated fact is worth a mountain of the most ingenious fiction. And it his a well-authenti-
